

man was contented to pinch his own belly, whatsoever had happened [might happen].

And taking the said wind, we got the gth day to the Table ; and sailing the same night, unawares overshot Havana; at which place we thought to have watered. But the next day, not knowing that we had overshot the same, sailed along the coast, seeking it: and the nth day, in the morning, by certain known marks, we understood that we had overshot it twenty leagues; in which coast ranging, we found no convenient watering place. Whereby there was no remedy, but to disembogue, and to water upon the coast of Florida [i.e., to go out of the Gulf of Mexico, by the Gulf of Florida, into the Atlantic Ocean; and coast Northward along the East coast of the present State of Florida]. For, to go farther to the Eastward, we could not for the shoals; which are very dangerous ; and because the current [the Gulf Stream] shooteth to the Northeast, we doubted [feared], by the force thereof, to set upon them, and therefore durst not approach them.

So making but reasonable way, the day aforesaid and all the night; the I2th day, m the morning, we fell m with the Islands upon the Cape of Florida P Florida Reefs; which we could scant [scarcely] double, by the means that fearing the shoals to the Eastward, and doubting the current coming out of the West, which was not of that force we made account of. For we felt little or none, till we fell with the Cape; and then felt such a current [going North-east] that, bearing all sails against the same [t.e., Westward], we were yet driven back again [at] a great pace.

The experience whereof, we had by the Jesus's pinnace and the Solomon's boat: which were sent the same day, in the afternoon, whiles the ships were becalmed, to see if they could find any water upon the islands aforesaid. Who spent a great part of the day in rowing thither, being farther off than they deemed it to be; and in the meantime, a fair gale of wind springing at sea, the ships departed, making a sign to them to come away. Who, although they saw them depart, because they were so near the shore, would not lose all the labour they had taken ; but determined to keep their way, and see if there were any water to be had ; making no account but to find the ships well enough.

But they spent so much time in filling the water which
